Company History

Eve Taylor (London) Ltd. began trading in 1963. It is a small family run business based in Peterborough, UK. It develops, produces and manufactures professional aromatherapy skin care and body care products. A professional product line is created for and sold exclusively to the qualified beauty therapist who uses professional products during treatments and recommends homecare (retail) products for the client to use between salon treatments.

Eve Taylor O.B.E. started her career in the beauty industry as a mobile beauty therapist and quickly became interested in Aromatherapy, the use of essential oils. Through years of study, practice and experience she developed a range of pre-blended aromatherapy oils and specific methods and techniques for their application. Eve's aromatherapy techniques (Clinical Aromatherapy) have been adopted as an industry standard for professional aromatherapy and currently taught extensively throughout the world. Her original aromatherapy blends still provide both professional therapists and their clients' outstanding results keeping demand high around the globe.

In 2005 Eve's expertise in aromatherapy expanded the company into developing skincare to further support the needs of the professional therapist. Affordable, trusted and proven makes Eve Taylor[®] skin and body care increasingly the professional's number one choice.

Formulations

Eve Taylor skincare products are an aromatherapy range meaning they contain essential oils. Essential oils are the aromatic fragrant portions of plants that have therapeutic properties. Apart from smelling pleasant and giving sensory gratification, essential oils also have a therapeutic effect and restore balance to the skin.

There are many different types of oils in chemistry. Often when we think of the word oil we think greasy, slippery oil such as almond oil, olive oil or flaxseed oil. Those are called fixed oils. Fixed oils don't evaporate the way most essential oils do. Essential oils are volatile, meaning they evaporate easily at normal temperatures, fixed oils don't evaporate. It is thought the essence of the plant comes from its fragrance. So we use the term essential oils to describe the aromatic portions of a plant.

Essential oils are extracted from various parts of plants such as roots, bark, flowers or seeds. Each essential oil has multiple properties but they all have the ability to DETOXINATE, OXYGENATE and HYDRATE.

In our Advanced range of products we also have cosmeceutical ingredients that may occur naturally or may be synthesised in the laboratory, such as vitamins or peptides. Many of these types of ingredients are technologically advanced. They are thoroughly tested and proven to give even greater, faster results many clients demand these days.

Retailing and Homecare Recommendations

In order for your client to maintain the fresh, glowing appearance of their skin after a facial treatment we need to ensure they are using the correct products at home. Think about visiting a dentist, who is a professional person qualified to carry out certain procedures that cannot be done yourself at home. Once we leave the dentist we maintain our teeth twice daily by brushing and flossing – buying toothpaste, dental flosses and toothbrushes.

Skin care is just the same, when a client comes to us with concerns about their skin it is because they want help solving them. We start improving their skin in the treatment and then it is for them to maintain the results twice daily with skin care products that we prescribe suitable for their skin type and current condition. This is part of our job and we are doing the client a disservice if we do not give product recommendations. After all, the client will simply go elsewhere and buy their products giving another business their money instead.

Telling not selling is simply another skill we need to learn. If you start off with one product and build up your confidence. One of the easiest products to retail is Refining Eye Gel. Tell the client why it is suitable for their skin and why you are recommending it. Simply turn back to your notes and learn the benefits of the product you want the client to start using.

Refining Eye Gel for example,
 "Aloe based eye gel hydrates and revitalises."
 "It's soothing and cooling effect reduces puffiness."
 "Contains seaweed for a firming effect."

To make it even easier we have Prescription Sheets available for you tick each and every product that is required for their skin, plus an area for additional advice about their skin and their treatment plan.
